HISTORIC DRAFT LOTTERY UNDER WAY

Number 158 Becomes First in Order For Military Service

MANY HIGH OFFICIALS HAVE LEADING ROLES
IN STARTING PROGRAM

By The Associated Press
Washington, Oct. 29.—(P)—An estimated 6,175 men holding draft series number 158 will be the first called up for military service in the nation's unprecedented peacetime conscription.

That number was the first drawn in today's historic draft lottery. Secretary of War Stimson drew it from a big glass bowl at 12:15 P. M. EST, a minute or so after President Roosevelt said in an opening speech that the purpose of raising a draft army is "the defense of our freedom."

ORDER IN WHICH
FIRST OF COUNTY
MEN ARE DRAWN

Standing on a platform in the large government auditorium which was the scene of the lottery, Mr. Roosevelt told an audience exceeding a seating capacity of 1,300 that "only the strong may continue to live in freedom and in peace."

In quick succession other numbers were drawn by high officials who, like Stimson, were blindfolded before their hands dipped into the glass bowl filled, at the start, with numbers put separately into cobalt blue capsules.

Order No. 2, drawn by Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, was announced by Mr. Roosevelt as serial number 182.

Order No. 3, drawn by Attorney General Jackson was announced by Mr. Roosevelt as serial number 8,239.

Order No. 4, drawn by Secretary of the Navy Knox, was 6,620.

Order No. 5, drawn by Secretary of Commerce Jones, was 6,685.

Jones lifted the fifth capsule from the bowl at 12:21 p. m. five minutes after the first one was drawn.

The next five order numbers drawn were:

Order No. 6, was 4,779, drawn by Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the senate military committee.

Order No. 7, was 8,948 drawn by Rep. Thompson (D-Tex.) of the house military committee.

Order No. 8, was 6,262 drawn by Rep. Kilday (D-Tex.) of the house military committee.

Order No. 9, was 8,130 drawn by Rep. Smith (D-Conn.).

Order No. 10, was 5,892, drawn by Col. Harry C. Kerner.

Each of the serial numbers drawn which was less than 2,627 represented 6,175 men. There are 6,175 draft areas in the nation, none with a registration, officials said, of less than 2,627. The largest area was one in Maryland, with a registration of 7,886.

All numbers above that were "blanks" although registrants may be assigned to them as local draft boards find necessary.

The first number drawn today—158—was exactly 100 less than the first number drawn in the world war draft.

Col. Victor I. O'Kellier then drew No. 5,485. When the first number—158—was announced by the president, a woman seated in the audience let out a scream.

She told reporters her name was (Turn to Page Nine)

Army Officer Dies

C. BLAINE SMATHERS
Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—(P)—Major General Charles Blaine Smathers, commander of the 56th infantry brigade, Pennsylvania National Guard, and superintendent of the Soldiers Orphan Home at Scotland, Franklin county, died in the naval hospital here at 5:03 p. m. yesterday. He was 63. He was a resident of Grove City, Pa.

NOTE EXPLAINS
GERMAN-FRENCH
NEGOTIATIONS

Washington, Oct. 26.—(P)—The State Department has been informed by the French embassy, it was learned today, that French negotiations with Germany involved no "territory concessions" or the "use of French strategic bases" by the Axis powers.

The embassy also issued a statement containing substantially the same information as follows:

"There is no foundation to rumors of peace negotiations, or territorial concessions by the French government to Germany or Italy, or use of French strategic bases by the Axis powers."

Although the note made no mention of the French fleet, unofficial French sources here noted that it was stated in Vichy last week that France would not allow use of its naval forces against Great Britain.

American naval and military experts consider that relinquishment of the French fleet—or the Dakar air and naval base—to Germany would be detrimental both to American interests and to the security of the western hemisphere.

The French embassy had this to say in a formal statement: "There is no foundation to rumors of peace negotiations or territory concessions by the French government to Germany or Italy, or use of French strategic bases by the Axis powers."

DECREE REACHED IN BLOCK BOOKING CASE

Washington, Oct. 29.—(P)—The Justice Department announced today that a consent decree had been filed in New York under which five major motion picture companies agreed to terminate so-called "block booking" methods.

The companies which consented to the decree were announced as Paramount, Lowe's, RKO, Warner Brothers, Twentieth Century-Fox, and their subsidiary and affiliated companies.

Three of the major companies named in the original complaint which led to the decree did not join in it. They were United Artists, Universal, and Columbia.

Portugal may feel pressure

Rome, Oct. 29.—(P)—Foreign circles expressed belief today that Axis pressure soon may fall on Portugal in a diplomatic drive to secure control of the whole west coast of Europe and Africa in preparation against the possibility of the United States entering the war.

The meeting at Florence yesterday of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, Italian sources indicated, was a step toward final settlement with France which would make French bases, and possibly the French navy, available to the Axis powers.

Next, they said, probably will be (Turn to Page Nine)

Keystone State, Once Republican Standby But Heavily For Roosevelt in 1936, Shapes Up in Eyes Of Many an Observer as Major Question-Mark of The National Campaign; Efforts Are Centered on Metropolitan Areas

CHAIRMEN OF BOTH PARTIES SEE VICTORY

By The Associated Press
Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—(P)—Pennsylvania, once a Republican standby but heavily for Roosevelt in '36, shapes up in the eyes of many an observer today as a major question-mark of the national campaign.

Democratic and Republican organizations alike have gone all-in in the closing drives for the Keystone State's 36 electoral votes—the country's second largest state bloc.

President Roosevelt led Alf Landon by 663,787 four years ago in Pennsylvania. In 1934 the state installed George H. Earle as the first Democratic governor in half a century. However, the Republicans returned to state control in 1938 as Governor Arthur H. James piled up a plurality of 279,148 votes.

Now leaders of both major parties are predicting victory here next Tuesday—by margins of 500,000 to 700,000 among the 4,500,000 to 5,000,000 registered voters.

Said Meredith Meyers, Democratic state chairman: "Pennsylvania is in the Roosevelt bag. We'll carry the state by a minimum of 450,000."

James Terrance, Republican state chairman, predicted: "The farmer and the rank and file citizens of Pennsylvania will carry this state for the Republican ticket by 500,000."

The big-city vote in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and the heavy labor vote, are as always among important considerations of the campaign. MAYOR HAGUE TO
BE SUBPOENAED
BY COMMITTEE

Newark, N. J., Oct. 29.—(P)—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City was subpoenaed to appear later today before a senate campaign investigating subcommittee after he had declined to appear voluntarily.

Hague, state Democratic leader, had advised the committee that there was no need of any reply to charges involving U. C. organization he heads.

Senator Tobey (R-NH), subcommittee member, and Ralph W. Davis, his counsel, asked that Hague be subpoenaed to appear this afternoon. They went into an executive conference with Senator Adams (D-Colo.), subcommittee chairman, after which Davis announced the subpoena had been issued.

An investigator was already en route to Jersey City in an attempt to serve the mayor, he said. (Turn to Page Nine)

ELECTION GOES TO WPA WORKERS

Harrisburg, Oct. 29.—(P)—Instructions were on their way today to WPA workers throughout Pennsylvania advising that they may vote as they choose without risk of being fired or having their wages cut.

Colonel Philip Mathew, state administrator for the Work Projects Administration, sent to all district directors the regulations issued by Howard O. Hunter, acting federal commissioner, with interpretations of the Hatch law regulating federal employees' political activities, and ordered that they be read to all WPA employees.

The communication emphasized that "you are entitled to vote or not vote, as you choose," and that you "can get your fired or change your wages because you do or do not vote, or because you belong to or do not belong to a political party."

"It is against the law for anyone to ask you for money for any political campaign," the regulations stated.

They added that administrative or supervisory employees "privately" may express political opinions, but may not take an active part in campaigns or use their influence "directly or indirectly" in political affairs.

CONFLICTING REPORTS
ARE RECEIVED ABOUT
24-HOUR HOSTILITIES

By The Associated Press
Singing their ancient war song, "We Will Throw Them Into the Sea," thousands of Greek reservists rushed to bolster the Metaxas line in the mountain passes of northern Greece today against the invasion of steadily strengthening Italian forces.

Conflicting reports gave an uncertain picture of the 24-hour-old fighting.

Diplomatic quarters in Rome said Italian troops, the vanguard of 200,000 massed for the assault, along the Albanian-Greek frontier, had broken through to a point 30 miles beyond the border, striking toward Salonika.

Government circles in Athens said that the Fascist invaders had been unable to drive back Greece's mountain defenders and that the conflict was "idealizing along the border."

Greek troops were described as clinging stubbornly to key points guarding the mountain passes despite hard Italian thrusts.

Reports that British troops landed on the island of Corfu, in the Ionian sea just off the border fighting scene, touched off a wave of enthusiasm in Athens.

Speeding help by land, sea and air, under a pledge to aid Greece if attacked, the British were reported planning to establish an air base at Corfu so RAF warplanes could guard practically defenseless Greek cities and also be within striking distance of Italian objectives just across the Ionian Sea.

In London, military informants reported Britain was hurrying "military assistance to Greece in the widest sense of the term," but said reports that British troops had landed on the island of Crete were "probably circulated by 'the enemy' to justify Italian action."

Action along the Greek-Albanian frontier, according to reports received in London, was mostly restricted to artillery duels, with the Greeks reportedly retreating from some advance posts.

For the first time, the Italian and German publics were permitted at least an inkling of information on the situation today.

Hitler's controlled press disclosed that Italy had served an ultimatum on Greece—the ultimatum was delivered at 3 a. m. yesterday (8 p. m. E. S. T. Sunday)—but kept Germany in the dark that a new battlefront for the Rome-Berlin axis had actually developed.

In Rome, Mussolini's High Command gave the first official announcement of the invasion in a terse communique devoting exactly 24 words to Italian troop action: "At dawn yesterday, our troops stationed in Albania, crossed the Greek frontier and penetrated into enemy territory from various points. The advance is continuing."

Government quarters in Athens voiced mounting confidence that the Greek army—estimated at 100,000 under arms with 500,000 reserves—would hold fast against the Italian onslaught and perhaps even launch a counter-offensive into the Italian-dominated "puppet" state of Albania.

Following yesterday's assurance of "unlimited support" by King George VI and Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Britain's first lord of the admiralty, A. W. Alexander, announced today that the British navy's help for Greece "has already begun."

Soviet Russia, the big question mark in the new conflict, appeared to be standing pat on her policy of watchful neutrality.

BROWNMILLER STARTS
SERVING SENTENCE

Harrisburg, Oct. 29.—(P)—Declaring he had his chin up, Roy Brownmiller began today serving a year's sentence in the Dauphin county jail, within a half-block of the capitol grounds he once trod as a state legislator and as secretary of the department of highways.

Five minutes before last, midnight, the deadline for his surrender to Warden D. H. Fahnestock, the one-time member of former Governor Earle's cabinet, stepped behind jail doors to serve out the sentence that followed his conviction a year ago of charges of permitting padded payrolls in Luzerne county prior to the 1938 general elections.

The only companion was former Judge J. Dress Pannell of Dauphin county, his attorney, who had fought the case to the state Supreme Court. Earlier yesterday the high court, meeting in Pittsburgh, refused to stay execution of Brownmiller's sentence.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—(P)—The German public knew today that Italy had served an ultimatum on Greece, but it was kept in ignorance of the fact that a new battlefront for the Axis had developed.

Nazi newspapers published the text of the 24-hour Italian ultimatum with comment from Rome as to why it was sent but made no mention of Greece's decision to fight.

Instead, columns were devoted to the Florence meeting of Premier Mussolini and Adolf Hitler, with assurances that it was all part of a development toward the Axis vision of a new Europe.

In Madrid it was reported Gen. Jose Varela, Spanish war minister, had flown to Cabo Yubi, Rio De Oro, Africa, on a trip believed closely connected with the recent conversations between Hitler and Generalissimo Francisco Franco. It was understood Varela might continue on to the Canary Islands.

Hitler and his staff, including Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, were reported to be in Berlin. (Turn to Page Nine)

Washington, Oct. 29.—(P)—Mechanical marvels which would have been mysteries to the doughboys of '17 are being used today to record for posterity the modernized draft lottery of 1940.

As each serial number is with-drawn from its bright blue capsule, it is slipped into a cardboard holder.

The holder is placed under the lens of an automatic camera which takes a picture, on a continuous strip of miniature film, of the number, a watch showing the exact second it was drawn, the date and the order in which it was drawn.

Next, the number is given to a tally clerk who vulcanizes it per-

Low Numbers the Rule
In Former Drawings

Washington, Oct. 29.—(P)—Low numbers were the rule for No. 1 honors in the first drawings in the three World War draft lotteries.

Secretary of War Newton D. Baker pulled No. 238 first in the drawing on July 20, 1917.

No. 246 was the first number drawn in the second lottery, held the following year.

No. 322 was drawn by President Wilson in the third lottery.

Numbers Among Initial 650 Stand Good
Chance of Being Among First Conscripts

Washington, Oct. 29.—(P)—Men whose numbers are among the first 650 drawn today in the draft lottery stand a good chance of being among the first 800,000 trainees who will be in the army before next July.

Those whose numbers are in the first 390 drawn are even more likely prospects, some calculators estimating that this narrower number range will supply all the men needed until next summer.

In any event, all the 8,500 numbers in the lottery bowl are to be drawn so each draft registrant will know his place on the master list, which will determine how soon or how late he will be subject to call.

The estimates on the number range for the first 800,000 trainees are based on the assumption that the reported registration of 17,000,000 men is accurate. The estimates disregard the uncertain possibility that thousands, not subject to immediate call, will volunteer for army training this year, thereby postponing the induction of men whose numbers put them at the top of the conscription list.

On a national average, roughly 130 men from each of 61.5 local selective service boards will be needed to fill a nationwide quota of 800,000.

Next, they said, probably will be (Turn to Page Nine)

The cardboard forms, holding 250 numbers each, are photographed; printing plates are made from the photographs; and copies of the original and only master list of numbers will be printed and distributed to the 6,175 local draft boards, for use in determining the order of calling men to service.

The photographs will be placed in the national archives for future historians.

In the 1917-18 draft drawings, each number was written down by hand in a broad, unwieldy ledger, and the master lists were printed from type, rather than from a photograph.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Rosaland Russell was talking on the set of "This Thing Called Love." She was enjoying this run of comedies she's been doing but she was beginning to wonder a little if she hadn't better try for a change... something different, a little more serious.

Gloria Dickson was talking on the set of "This Thing Called Love." She liked this part a sort of tough, jittery gal, but she was afraid... as too much like the tough gal she's been doing at another studio. She had talked the director into letting her dress up the part—she didn't want to get stuck in a rut.

Allen Joslyn was talking on the set of "This Thing Called Love." He said he started in pictures as a newspaperman and played so many newspapermen that once he didn't work for six months because he didn't want to play another newspaperman—or the particular type of effeminate comedy he enacted in "Cafe Society," in which he played a newspaperman again.

This thing called Hollywood... I MEANT to be selfish and store it away in my private movie museum, but then I began hearing things I began hearing the fans were crying for it and there wasn't enough of it to go around. If that's true, I want to give my bit to humanity. It's a far, far better thing that I do, etc. The first fan who really wants a look of D. Lamour's hair enough to write me—first—can have mine.

This is in lieu of passing out million-dollar jobs to the several people who have written for them. Some day, when I am older and wiser, I will know better than to mention a million dollars anywhere—especially in writing!

WOULD a look at Carole Lombard's dressing room compensate, just a little? It's different from all the other portable dressing rooms in town. It's here today on the set of "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," with no chrome door-knobs or hand-quilted satin walls. It hasn't any doors or walls at all. It's five pieces of furniture, right out in the open set—a chaise longue and two chairs, a dressing table with stool to match, all covered in powder blue chintz.

Says Carole: "I like to be out where I can talk to people and they can talk to me."

She does, and they do.

GEORGE REEVES has ended a fantastic week—a Hollywood honeymoon.

On the day of his wedding (to Eleanor Needles) he was told he probably would have to work that night. He was in uncertainty until 4 p. m., when he was dismissed. His parting gift was an eight-page speech to be learned for the next day's shooting. He was married, but the honeymoon was postponed. He worked all week and Saturday, Mrs. Reeves visited the set to see her husband rehearsing a love scene with Rosemary Lane. But the picture's title is promising, for all that. It's "Always a Bride."

DEDICATION AT STARBRICK IS WELL ATTENDED

Large crowds of interested friends attended both morning and afternoon sessions of the dedication services held Sunday at the Starbrick chapel, which was recently remodeled and is now free of debt.

There were 134 in attendance at the Rally Day service in the morning, when Dean Coates, of Towson, former missionary of the American Sunday School Union in Warren county, spoke of work at the Starbrick chapel in days gone by.

The Rev. Frank Kehrli, of Cleveland, now superintendent of the north central district of the American Sunday School Union, was present at both services. He was the missionary who opened the work at Starbrick in January, 1909. Later a chapel was built. As the interest in the Sunday school grew, this chapel became too small and this year a building committee was named to work with the trustees of the church in enlarging the building.

At the afternoon session, attended by 150 persons, the Rev. C. E. Dibble, of Warren, spoke busily, bringing greetings from the Warren County Ministerial Association, a mixed quartet from the Nazarene church sang a number and a musical selection was given by eight men who were associated with Rev. Kehrli in the Sunday school work in the county years ago. The Rev. Charles McIntyre, of Bradford, also spoke in appreciation of the work of the missionaries of the American Sunday School Union.

The dedicatory sermon was preached by Rev. Kehrli. The money needed to pay for the addition to the chapel was quickly pledged, after which it was dedicated. Ernest Kaebnick, former field missionary for Warren county and now a general missionary, assisted Rev. Kehrli in this service.

Carl Roberts, superintendent of the Starbrick Sunday school for the past eight years, presided at the morning session. Rev. B. F. Armstrong, present missionary for Warren and Forest counties, presided at the afternoon session.

Republican Rallies

Last night a crowd of about 125 people gathered in the Lacy school for the Wilkie Night rally sponsored by the Young Republicans of the 9th ward. In addition to the musical program arranged by the entertainment committee under the leadership of its chairman, Mrs. Hazel Irwin, there were several speakers. Assemblyman W. W. Munt and State Senator L. E. Chapman made short addresses and A. C. Flick Jr. reminded the audience of the responsibilities resting on each voter in this critical election.

Arthur MacDonald, president of the 9th Ward Young Republican Club, conducted the meeting and Nick Merenick, Young Republican Committeeman, acted as general chairman. Assisting him were James Thompson, refreshment committee chairman, and Charlotte Sires in charge of decorations.

Tomorrow night the Fifth Ward Young Republican Club will sponsor a rally to be held at 8:00 p. m. in the Jefferson street school. There will be a program of speakers and entertainment.

On Friday night there will be a Republican rally in Sheffield. The meeting is scheduled to begin promptly at 8:00 p. m. in the I. O. O. F. Hall. The program will include the Wilkie sound pictures as well as speakers and informal entertainment.

THREE RECEIVE SENTENCES FOR ALLEGED THEFT

Two Youngsville men and a Ripley woman, indicted in Chautauqua county court for burglary and larceny, were sentenced at Mayville, N. Y., yesterday by Judge Lee L. Ottaway.

Michael Hackman, of Youngsville, withdrew a former plea of innocent to a charge of burglary, third degree, and grand larceny, second degree, and pleaded guilty. He was indicted with Clinton Carpenter, of Youngsville, and Ida Rogers, of Ripley, who previously pleaded guilty.

Mrs. Rogers was sentenced to serve from one to two years in the New York State Prison for Women at Bedford Hills. Carpenter was committed to Mayville jail for three months and Hackman was given a suspended sentence of one to two years in Attica State Prison.

The three were accused of breaking into the home of Everett Winslow in Westfield, October 6, and taking maple syrup valued at $150. Hackman is said to have been the driver of the truck which transported the syrup across the state line.

PARADE PLANNED AT SHEFFIELD THURSDAY NIGHT

Sheffield, Oct. 29.—The Sheffield district committee, Boy Scouts of America, originator and sponsor of the community's annual "Hallow-e-en" parade for the school children of the township, has completed plans for the fifth annual parade, which is scheduled to take place Thursday evening, weather permitting.

In making public the arrangements, which are practically the same as those last year, F. L. Borden, general chairman, said that only in the event of unusually severe weather would the parade be cancelled.

With the exception of the Barnes school students, who will assemble at the high school, the students will report at their respective schools at 6:15 o'clock where the prettiest, funniest and most original costumes will be selected by committees from the Washington and Lincoln Mothers' Clubs. The grand prize winner will be chosen along the line of march by a trio of anonymous judges.

The prizes or the funds with which they were purchased were contributed by the merchants and other interested citizens and total

Oklahoma Congressman Outlines New Deal Accomplishments at Dem Rally Held in Court House Here

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience at the Democratic rally held last night at the court house, Will Rogers, congressman-at-large from Oklahoma, gave a stirring address which received great applause. Like his namesake, he mingled dry humor with the points he wished to impress on the group.

He said: "In the session of 1933 held 100 days, I defy any one to contradict me if that session when Roosevelt took office, did not pass more legislation than any Republican administration in the twelve preceding years. It was this session when the great banking law and other legislation was passed to bring the country from its stage of fear into stability."

Mr. Rogers gave a short resume of the sand storms in the west and what the administration has and is doing to correct this terrible evil. He also related all the New Deal legislative acts. He said: "You can remember when it was dangerous to belong to a union because you may be fired, and many were fired."

"Willkie is preaching around the country that he is still going to carry the relief load, he is in favor of the New Deal measures, but he has a bigger and better way with less expense. If you believe that then there is no hope whatever in the human race. Willkie was for Roosevelt and the 1932 platform,

He is still for the platform which is bigger and better, but not for the candidate who so rudely fought the big utility interests with the holding bill."

Henry Nicholson, candidate for assembly, introduced the speaker of the evening and gave a very interesting talk on National affairs and gave the record of his opponent who consistently, he said, has voted against the majority of the citizens. He said that his opponent voted to put relief upon politics; make relief recipients take any job that was forced upon them irrespective of physical ability; was against in previous sessions the flood control and reforestation bills.

The chairman spoke briefly in behalf of the other candidates on the Democratic ticket and urged their re-election. He called on E. H. Beshlin, former congressman in the Wilson administration who played the outrageous advertisements on bill boards by the Republican organization endeavoring to stir up religious strife, which posters were removed immediately in Philadelphia upon complaint of the clergy. He also said that Hiram Johnson, now against a third term, was running mate to Teddy Roosevelt when he was up for the third term and that Johnson does not mind being re-elected for the fifth term.

Music for the evening was furnished by the Young Troubadors of North Warren, who received a great hand.

START OF GIRL SCOUT WEEK IS OBSERVED HERE

More than 200 Girl Scouts, leaders and friends observed the first day of Girl Scout Week on Sunday at a "Scout's Own" service in the Beatty school auditorium.

A color guard composed of Mary Gnagey, Helen Clare Atulings, Jean Cannon and Joan Weiler, served during the flag ceremony which opened the meeting. Mrs. Nelson Johnson spoke briefly, bringing greetings from the Warren County Girl Scout Council, of which many members were present.

Troop 19, First Presbyterian church, sang "Donna Nobis Pacem" (Give Us Peace). A speaking chorus from Troop 29, Tidouct, read, "Is It Uphill All the Way?"

Calvin M. Hall, executive of the Warren County Boy Scout Council, explained the title of his address, "A Mole at a Convention of Steam Shovelers." A typifying the way one Girl Scout feels when she considers what she may do to help her country in these days of stress.

BEATY SCHOOL PUPILS URGING THAT ALL VOTE

In an effort to arouse the citizens of Warren county to the importance of voting next Tuesday, the Beatty school is putting on a campaign to get out the vote, it was announced today by Principal H. D. Harris.

Pupils are encouraged to enroll in one of the major political parties. Each home room is treated as a state with one electoral vote. Each party has its speakers who will acquaint the pupils with the issues and the candidates and on Tuesday morning an election will be held.

However, Mr. Harris said, the most important thought is to get the parents to vote, regardless of the party to which they belong.

Good citizenship awards have been printed and these will be given to every pupil who is instrumental in getting all the members of his household who are eligible to vote.

Both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie have been voted honorary membership in the Beatty Citizenship League and have been so notified by the secretary. They have also been informed that they may qualify for the award if they meet the requirements.

THE WAR COMES TO GREECE

With Greece, Britain's Mediterranean friend, facing an Axis onslaught with an army estimated at 100,000 men, a fleet topped by a rebuilt cruiser, and an air corps placed at 125 planes, the question naturally arises, what does the future hold for the little kingdom?

Much of her land force already is massed behind the "Metaxas line" of defense works which Premier Dictator John Metaxas had built along the Greek-Albanian frontier after Italy first moved into Albania.

Greece, an independent kingdom under King George II that is in effect a dictatorship under Metaxas, had been considered in the British-sphere of influence since April, 1939.

At that time Italy, already in a potentially threatening position in the Dodecanese islands to the south-east, occupied Albania, on Greece's northern frontier. This brought from Great Britain and France immediate pledges of "all the support in their power," if the Greek independence should be threatened.

Metaxas, minister of war in a non-partisan cabinet when the monarchy was restored in 1935, has been premier since April 13, 1936. He has been the country's "strong man" since the coup d'etat of August 4, 1936, by which he dissolved the chamber of deputies, announced the suspension of civil rights and took for himself the portfolios of foreign affairs, war, marine, air and education.

Under his rule, Greek relations with Italy, Yugoslavia and Turkey seemed to improve. He introduced a broad program of social legislation and public works. There was a general increase in wages and the standard of living. There also was an increase in taxes and the cost of living.

United States interests have invested considerably in this program of modernization. American firms signed a $10,000,000 contract for the development of power and chemical and metallurgical plants. In order to avoid spending $7,000,000 a year to import coal the Greek government signed a contract calling for the U. S. interests to spend $1,200,000 in developing Greek lignite deposits.

Greece, with an area of 50,257 square miles and a population of over 7,000,000, is primarily an agricultural country. Until the outbreak of the European war the largest share of her trade, both import and export, was with Germany.

In the World War, Greece mustered some 150,000 men to fight on the side of the Allies. Under Metaxas, the present-day, Greek defenses have been reorganized. The premier also has undertaken to strengthen the navy. Between 1937 and 1940, the government planned to build twelve destroyers and two submarines, only two had been built by the end of last year. The navy consists of one cruiser, one minelayer, four modern destroyers and torpedo boats, six submarines and thirteen other units.

Fewer details are available on the Greek air force. She has about 125 war planes, chiefly of British and French manufacture, and there are three military airdromes and seaplane bases.

To reinforce these limited armaments Great Britain is reported rushing the assistance of her powerful Mediterranean fleet, and authoritative quarters in London say that England "has every intention of honoring her pledge to Greece" under the terms of the 1939 guarantee.

It is too soon to judge whether Mussolini's attack on Greece represents the beginning of an Axis assault on the Dardanelles in an effort to crash through Turkey into the Near East, but many believe if it does the world is witnessing the start of a drama which may easily determine whether Hitler is to be master of a goodly part of the world or whether he is on the skids.

North Warren's annual Harvest Festival celebration and carnival got off to a splendid start this evening, according to all reports. It extends through the week.

Lot of folks are already wondering at they'll blame everything on after the campaign is over!

Records seem to indicate the safety of a pedestrian is in an automobile!

Whoever You're For--

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Let's talk about Sabu for a little while today. You know Sabu, don't you? He is the 16-year-old boy from Mysore, India, who is seen occasionally in New York, and more often in Hollywood, walking around the streets with a red turban on. Sabu is an actor. He was the hero of "Elephant Boy." More lately, he is one of the stars of the film "The Thief of Bagdad." It has a marvelous role for Sabu, who realizes it and is grateful for his opportunity.

Sabu is in this country because he is under contract to Mr. Alexander Korda, husband of Merle Oberon and a producer of noteworthy films. They were filming "Thief" in London but left to complete it in America when the war became tough.

"Says Sabu: 'It was fun, working in England, but I'll never see that studio again.' If you ask him why, he says: 'It's next door to the Spitfire factory. That's what I'd like to fly, a Spitfire. I use to go in there all the time and climb into the cockpits. I'd like to join the R. A. F. and fly a Spitfire.'"

A couple of weeks ago Sabu, with June Duprez, the English actress, flew from Hollywood to Warm Springs, Georgia. They went down there for the world premiere of "The Thief of Bagdad." In many ways "his was the strangest premiere ever put on. Instead of arriving in limousines and in wheel-chairs and on stretchers you see, this was given under the auspices of FDR for the patients at the Warm Springs Foundation. There were no outsiders or fanfare at all. It wasn't a commercial gesture. It was just an idea that brought a lot of happiness to a lot of nice people who do not have too many opportunities to see the glitter side of present-day life.

SABU and Miss Duprez were the real heroes of the occasion. Sabu went swimming with the patients in the famous waters of the pools of Warm Springs, and Miss Duprez busied herself visiting those who were unable to be about, even on stretchers, signing autographs and photographs. They loved her for it.

When it was over, Sabu and June Duprez flew back to Hollywood. Sabu has a girl there; she's a senior in high school. On Friday nights he takes her to the movies, or even to Malibu for weenie roasts.

"I like that," he exclaimed. "Only they don't let me stay up late enough. They make me go to bed by midnight."

Life can be cruel to an Elephant Boy, even a little Thief of Bagdad. "Why, you're just beginning to have sun by midnight," Sabu says.

STAMP NEWS

THE invention of the sewing machine was one of United States' most important contributions to the industrial revolution. All of the nation's vast garment-making industries exist today because Elias Howe's machine took the manufacture of clothing from the home to the factory.

Howe is honored on the U. S. 5-cent stamp above, fourth of the inventors group of the Famous Americans series. The Howe stamp will be placed on first-day sale at Spencer, Mass., Oct. 14.

Howe did not invent the first sewing machine. Thomas Saint, an Englishman, built a working model in 1790. Barthelmy Thimmonier, a French tailor, used a machine to sew uniforms for the French army in 1830. But Howe's machine, completed and patented in 1846, was the first to become a real competitor of hand labor.

Years of discouragement and disappointment followed for Howe, before he was successful in introducing his invention and maintaining patent rights. Courts sustained the fundamental principles of his machine, and he is credited with the invention of the modern sewing machine.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Capital folk: (The National Police academy, sponsored by the federal bureau of investigation, gives a 12-week course of intensive instruction in modern police methods to a group of 40 men three times a year. There is no tuition fee, but traveling and living expenses of students must be paid by some one other than the government.)

He was a heavy-set, dumpy deputy sheriff from the sagebrush country. He was terribly overweight and while it was expected that the NPA's daily hour of physical training would reduce his weight in the ensuing weeks he became almost skinny.

His actions were called strange. Although he never missed a class, he never went to luncheon with his classmates and immediately after the afternoon sessions were out he would hurry off by himself. The other members of the class dubbed him "the lone wolf" made jokes about him, snickered behind his back.

Finally, the course was over and, on "graduation day," the Lone Wolf came into the office of the assistant director. He said: "There's something been worrying me. I know the fellows don't like me. They think I'm a queer guy. I guess. That's all right. I don't blame them. But I did feel kinda like some explanation was due you."

Tightened Belt

"The truth is I had to mortgage my home to get enough money to pay my expenses here. I had to leave my family and some other relatives I'm kinda taking care of back home. It's been a little tough."

"When I got my budget all figured out, I found I just had 35 cents a day to buy meals while I was here. I didn't mind that for myself. Shucks, I had coffee and doughnuts for breakfast, soup for lunch, and I managed to get along for supper. But I couldn't stand for those other fellows to see me eating like that and I couldn't tell 'em where I was going for my meals."

"I guess it's what you call false pride. But that's the way it was, anyway. And I just figured I ought to tell you that I'm not really a strange guy and if I had it to do over again, I'd do it the same way because that's about the only way I could have got what the academy has to offer."

Pinning 'Em Down

(THERE isn't a sorority girl in the country who doesn't know the ceremony of "putting the pin outside." It comes, generally at the close of the year, most often the senior year, when a girl who has been secretly wearing a fraternity pin UNDER her blouse, puts it outside over her heart and lets the world know she is engaged to so-and-so. Here's the Washington version.)

A young woman government worker we know is an ardent Willkie-ite. At a friend's house she was given a very pretty Willkie button. She remembered that the Hatch act forbade her wearing it during working hours, so she pinned it under her lapel. That evening, as she started to leave the building, she pulled her collar up around her throat. It wasn't until she got home that her attention was called to the fact that she had been brazening it out for an hour with this tell-tale headlight most prominently displayed.

Question Of Strategy

The next morning, she pinned the button inside her coat and then forgot, throwing the garment over the back of her chair in the department cafeteria at lunch time. The button stood out like a lantern on a starless night. Coworkers snickered. Junior executives scowled. Finally her best friend told her.

The young lady hasn't given up. She now wears the button pinned under her dress (the old college custom). "But," she says, "I just know that some day I'm going to forget and wear a pekaboo shirt, waist and then I WILL be out of a job."

POLITICAL FORUM

Articles appearing in this department are furnished by representatives of the respective parties in Warren county and are not intended to reflect the views or opinions of the publisher.

REPUBLICAN

One week from today, millions of sincere and patriotic Americans will go to the polls and there exercise their cherished right to vote. Like every right, this right to vote carries a corresponding responsibility. In this case it is the citizen's responsibility to vote intelligently. There are six days in which to think over the tremendous issues in this campaign. Yesterday the Clean Government Committee published ten questions which every voter would do well to ponder. They are these:

1. Will you ignore the example of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Jackson in refusing a third term, and abandon the high principle they established that no man is indispensable, in order to continue in power a President who, with political subterfuge, eliminated other aspirants, and forced himself and his choice for "Vice-President" on a sullen Democratic Convention?
 2. Will you continue in office an administration which sought to adjourn Congress at a time when the President had brought the nation to the brink of war without a program for its defense?
 3. Will you continue an administration that makes deals with foreign nations without the advice and consent of the Senate as provided in the Constitution and which does not think it necessary to inform Congress of what it is doing in domestic and foreign affairs?
 4. Will you give a third term to an administration which tried to scuttle the United States Supreme Court so as to cripple another coordinate branch of the government, which has attempted to purge its critics and has driven from office decent men whom it could not bend to its will?
 5. Will you vote a third term to an administration that has failed, in the face of the warning of its own agents, to prepare us for defense, and which has sought to delude the public by confusing airplanes, tanks and munitions with order which actually on hand?
 6. Will you plunge us into war at the whim of an exceedingly whimsical executive, made arrogant and dictatorial by prolonged tenure of high office? Will you leave it to Mr. Roosevelt, by himself and without congressional and public debate, to decide whether we will send our Navy to battle with Japan over the Burma Road, India, China and the East Indies? Will you leave the issue of war and all its horrors in the hands of an administration that creates crisis for partisan purposes and to further the restless ambition of a President who has tried to concentrate, in every way, power in his own hands?
 7. Will you continue an administration which for eight years has bred class conflict and hatred, which has fomented division and discord, thus creating the very weaknesses from which Europe is suffering today?
 8. Will you give a third term to New Dealers who have announced that we will always have ten million unemployed, and that relief on a bare subsistence level is all that these millions can look forward to in place of honest work and wages in a revitalized industry?
 9. Do you want the nation administered with the aid of radicals, amateur experimenters, bootlickers and partisans, or with the aid of responsible Cabinet officers and advisers? Do you want our great cities sold down the river in a trade for votes with Boss Flynn, Boss Hague, Boss Nash and other Bosses?
 10. Will you repudiate the New Deal and put in office a responsible executive trained in business, without illusions of grandeur, who will perform his duties and keep you and your representatives informed on the domestic and foreign affairs of the nation?
- You have only six days to think it over.

DEMOCRAT

CORPORATIONS AND POLITICS

"I hope we shall take warning from the example and crash in its birth the aristocracy of our moneyed corporations which dare already to challenge our government to a trial of strength and bid defiance to the laws of our country." These words were spoken by Thomas Jefferson in 1816.

"The money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the republic is destroyed." These words were spoken by Abraham Lincoln.

We need no present day quotations to demonstrate the power of corporations, big and little. Today we are witnessing that money power in the colossal blitzkrieg of Republican propaganda directed against the Administration. Hundreds of millions of dollars which should be rightfully given to the stockholders in dividends are instead being spent to defeat the government of the people in an effort to again establish a corrupt Republic. It has been shown that not only do business corporations indulge in this corrupt practice of spending their stockholders' money but that the banks also are guilty of doing so. As always, the public is the sucker. His own money is being used to defeat his own best interests.

More than 90% of the newspapers are arrayed behind this immense Republican money-machine. Is it any wonder that many people are being fooled by deliberate Republican falsehoods? Does any one really believe we have a "free" press when big corporation advertisers hold the power of life and death over the newspapers? Does anyone believe that Republicanism which is merely Hitlerism and Mussolinism in a less violent form, wants a free press when one considers that the Tennessee Utilities Commission found Mr. William C. Company, the Tennessee Electric Company guilty on 917 counts of "Using unlawful devices" to destroy the Chattanooga News because it supported the T. V. A. and favored a publicly owned power plant for Chattanooga?

So powerful is this money-power that people otherwise honest and reputable are victimized by it. Corporation jobholders as well as laborers and farmers play into the hands of the Republican money crowd because they feel flattered to belong to the same political organization as J. P. Morgan and Henry Ford.

This explains the fact that people otherwise honest and reputable permit themselves to be identified with a political machine whose one aim and achievement has been the plundering of natural resources and victimizing the public. One can find no other explanation why people lend their support to a party of organized corruption and human exploitation and which has placed in high public office such social and cultural parasites as Grant, Harding, Mills, Daugherty, Fall and a host of other equally incompetent and anti-social characters who in any civilized government should not be tolerated.

The day has passed when employers can force their foreign-born laborers to vote the Republican ticket under threat of being fired. Corporations today realize that they are dealing with an entirely different situation. Hence, the campaign of fear which they are now conducting. But we do not think the people will be stampeded. Republican coercion has in the past been strong, and older Warren County residents have had a taste of it but we do not believe the public takes well to Dictatorship methods today.

We can, with the weapon of the secret ballot, overthrow this Republican big-money, super-corporation, Dictatorship which has become so strongly entrenched and in which we are so deeply involved. It will repay you to read the first two paragraphs of this article again. Jefferson and Lincoln knew what they were talking about.

OBITUARY

MRS. HARRIETT HARRINGTON
Russell, Oct. 28.—Funeral services for Mrs. Harriett B. Harrington were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist church, preceded by a prayer service at the home, conducted by the Rev. R. S. Naylor and Gust Probst. The hymn, "Take the Name of Jesus with You" was sung.

At the church the service was in charge of Rev. Naylor, assisted by the Rev. Michael Anzalone, of Buffalo. At the request of the deceased, the service was evangelistic in nature. Mrs. Ora Miller sang "At the End of the Road." Rev. Naylor brought the message and the Rev. and Mrs. Drury sang "What Will You Do With Jesus," with the following ministers, who were seated on the pulpit, joining in singing the chorus: Rev. J. Reichenbach, of Hartford, N. Y.; Rev. Earl Mattison, Union City; Rev. R. K. Rumbaugh, Volant; Rev. Maneval, Chandelers Valley; Rev. H. Blair Ward, Rev. C. E. Dibble and Rev. Drury, of Warren; Rev. Marvin Swart, of Somerset.

The Rev. D. K. Freymeyer, of Jamestown, offered prayer, and Rev. Anzalone delivered an evangelistic message on the subject, "What Will You Do With Jesus?" Rev. Stewart, of the O. E. Williams evangelistic party, read a telegram from the entire party regretting their absence. The ser-

Eindhoven and Cuxhaven, the Air Ministry reported.

Besides, it said, 19 air bases in Germany and in Nazi-occupied territory, "numerous anti-aircraft batteries," shipping in the "invasion port" of Boulogne, oil plants, railroad and industrial centers were attacked.

The first daylight alarm in London followed an interval of several hours after the last "all clear" on the 52nd straight night of air attack.

Two high explosive bombs, dropped from a plane flying so high it could neither be seen nor heard, fell in the London district. A small caliber bomb fell near a brick shelter but did not damage it.

Comparatively few bombs dropped on the 52nd consecutive night of aerial attacks brought one of the lightest nighttime raids of the war.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Light German planes maintained attacks on England today, and pilots brought back reports which informed sources said indicated heavy damage had been caused by overnight raids on the London area, at Liverpool and Birkenhead.

British bomb raids in German territory last night caused one death, these sources said, but resulted in no military or industrial damage.

Many High Officials Have Leading Roles In Starting Program

Mrs. Robert Bell of this city and that her son, Robert Bell, Jr., who held No. 158, was 21 years old only last August 27.

Mrs. Bell later walked to the platform and shook hands with Dr. Dykstra. After the first ten numbers were drawn, army officers attached to the selective service system were accorded the privilege of picking numbers. The 13th number drawn from the big bowl was 6,604; the 14th, 8,946; the 15th, 5,375; the 16th, 7,674; the 17th, 4,880; the 18th, 4,928; the 19th, 105.

President Roosevelt spoke before the lottery began, saying that America's young men "are ready, as all of our country must be, to play their part" in the nation's defense.

He spoke in a government auditorium beside a huge owl full of draft numbers. The order of their drawing will determine the order of service of a possible 17,000,000 men in the nation's first peacetime conscription.

Mr. Roosevelt said "that in the present world the survival of liberty and justice is dependent on strength to defend against attack."

"We are mustering all our resources, manhood and industry and wealth to make our nation strong in defense," Mr. Roosevelt said after telling the audience of more than 1,500 that "this is a most solemn ceremony."

"For clearly, history proves all too recent, I am sorry to say, the President continued, 'that only the strong may continue to live in freedom and in peace.'"

"In the considered opinion of the congress of the United States," he said, "this selective service law provides the most effective means for the mustering of our man-power."

To the men who will be called for service under the draft, the President said: "You have the confidence, and the gratitude, and the love of your countrymen. We are all with you in the task which enlists the services of all Americans—the task of keeping the peace in this new world."

When the ceremonies are finished sometime after midnight each one of the 17,000,000 men who registered for compulsory military training October 16 will have been assigned his order of service.

Of the total, about 5,000,000 officials estimated, actually will go into uniform, eventually. The rest will be deferred for various reasons.

The huge bowl of capsules, under treasury guard, was removed from a treasury vault and placed in government auditorium at 10:40 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

A little later draft headquarters announced that it held 9,000 of the non-transparent cobalt blue capsules, instead of 8,500 as had been planned previously.

The use for the increase was said to be that one Maryland draft area had reported at the last minute, 7,836 registrants, much larger than the expected maximum for any district. Since officials wanted to leave a wide margin of "blank" numbers for late registrations and cards now in transit from one area to another they added 500 numbers to the lottery.

The oversize Maryland area was described as one near Baltimore at which an airplane manufacturing plant recently was constructed.

The big bowl stood on a table on a platform at the front of the auditorium. A policeman was on guard behind it. The wide mouth of the bowl was sealed with white paper, not to be broken through until the capsules were stirred in preparation for Secretary of War Stimson to draw the first number.

With mobilization geared to full speed, Greece's King George II took over supreme command of his own fighting forces, while Athens and other Greek cities tolled feverishly to expand hospital facilities and build up air-raid defenses.

Athens passed a quiet night, and so far no bombs had fallen into the ancient capital, although anti-aircraft guns on Mt. Lycabettus, 900 feet above the streets, fired repeatedly yesterday at raiders overhead.

In Patras, third Greek city, air-raid casualties were listed at 50 killed, more than 100 wounded.

Observers noted Madrid reports that Gen. Jose Varela, Spanish minister of war, had flown to Cairo, Yubi, in Spanish northwest Africa, on a trip believed to be a development of the recent talk between Hitler and Spain's chief of state, Gen. Francisco Franco.

SPURT IN STEELS LEADS ADVANCE

New York, Oct. 29.—(AP)—Demand for steels and scattered industrial specialties contrasted with indifference in most other departments of today's stock market.

Steel issues edged upward in fairly lively dealings after a notably mixed start. Activity later slackened, but prices generally were irregularly higher near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 600,000 shares.

Charges That Republicans Had Record of 'Sabotage'

New York-New Jersey area before concluding with his address at Madison Square Garden, while Willie was pleading the Republican cause in Kentucky, where he delivered a major speech at Louisville last night.

Mr. Roosevelt devoted his Madison Square Garden address to answer what he termed more examples of "major campaign falsifications" by the Republican opposition. He concentrated on the charge that under his administration the nation had been slow in rearming.

"The simple truth is," he said, "that the Republican party played politics with defense in 1935 and 1939. They are playing politics with national security today."

Willie, hoarse from the heavy speaking schedule he has been carrying for weeks, meanwhile was accusing Mr. Roosevelt "and a little group of men in large part unknown to our people" of stifling and "kidnaping" the Democratic party.

"It is this new deal party," he said, "that now makes its ultimate grasp for power—the repeal of the rule against the third term—that its reign may continue in perpetuity."

In speeches and statements, supporters of both the Democratic and Republican nominees appealed yesterday to the voters.

Omaha, Neb.—Henry A. Wall, Democratic nominee for vice president, charged that "bold chicanery of Wall Street" were in control of the Republican party and that election of a Republican administration "would sound the death knell of fair play for the farmer."

Peoria, Ill.—Thomas E. Dewey asserted that the present administration has "failed in its highest duty—the defense of the United States."

Salt Lake City, Utah—Secretary Ickes charged that the Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees stood on opposite sides of the question of distribution of public hydroelectric power.

New York—Oren Root, Jr., chairman of the Associated Willie Clubs of America, said that the administration had "never hesitated to use the people's money in an effort to buy votes to keep itself in power" and would not hesitate to do so next week.
